IN DEEP DESPAIR.

A MONTREALER RELATES HIS WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE.

He Had Tried Foreign and Local Physicians and Was Operated on Without Success—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured When All Other Medicines Failed.

From the Montreal Herald.

Instances of marvellous cures by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are numerous, but the one related below is of special interest, owing to the fact that in the present instance the sufferer was well known in Montreal. Mr. Charles Frank, inspector of the mechanical department of the Bell Telephone Co., at 351 Boulevard Street, and who resides at 14, Argyle Avenue, in an interview with a Herald reporter, related the following wonderful cure by the use of Pink Pills. Mr. Frank, who is 25 years of age, is a Russian by birth, exceedingly intelligent, speaks several languages fluently, and is now apparently in good health. "My disease came about in a peculiar way," said Mr. Frank. "Up to three years ago I was in the best of health. About that time while in Glasgow, Scotland, where I was employed as a clerk in a hotel, and while residing on the Clyde, I began to feel unwell. I had a pretty rough time of it for a while. I evidently must have injured myself internally, although I felt nothing wrong at the time. On my way home, however, I fell asleep on the street and had to be conveyed home in a cab, as my legs were utterly unable to hold me up. I was confined to bed for several days in the same helpless condition, when I called, but found that my urine was of a strange reddish line. I called in a physician, who prescribed and did me good. I then called on Sir George McLeod, M. D., who also prescribed and advised me to take the hospital. I was advised to do this, and he advised me to try a change of climate, telling me that my bladder was affected. I acted on his suggestion as to change and came to Montreal. I did not do anything for about a year, as I wished to get cured. All this time my urine was tainted with blood, although I was suffering no pain, but this abnormal condition was a source of continual anxiety. I finally went to the General Hospital, where the physician in charge advised me to stay, which I did. After remaining there for five weeks with no benefit, a consultation of physicians was held and an operation suggested, to which I this time agreed. After the operation was performed I was no better, my condition remaining absolutely unchanged. From the time out I was confined to bed, and the operation was performed by several medical men, but derived no benefit from anything or anyone. I was in despair, as the physicians who had operated on me could not decide as to my trouble. I visited the hospital once more and they said they would operate again. But I did not care to undergo a second and perhaps equally unsuccessful operation. Some physicians thought my trouble was consumption of the bladder, others that it was Bright's disease, but I could not cure that strange blood-tinged condition of my urine.

"Finally I went to work for the Bell Telephone Co., some two years ago, where I worked myself up to my present position. But I was in a state of constant anxiety, as I felt myself getting weaker all the time, and was useless and sleepy and weak in the legs. I was also tired and ill-looking, no doubt owing to the loss of blood. From a naturally cheerful man I became morose, and gave up all hopes of ultimate recovery. One Saturday, some months ago, while walking along River Street, I saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the Montreal Herald. I stopped at John T. Lyons' drug store, and bought a box. I had tried so many medicines that I had lost myself. 'If they don't cure me I can't be any worse off than before.' After taking the first box I felt stronger and more cheerful, although there was no change in the bloody condition of my urine. But I felt encouraged and got three more boxes, determined to make a thorough trial of Pink Pills. After I had finished the second I found my urine was getting clearer, so I continued the use of the pills, taking two after each meal. When I had finished the third box my urine was quite clear, for the first time in three years. I was delighted and continued taking the pills until I had finished six boxes. I am strong now and have had no recurrence of the trouble, and as you can see, the blood of health shows itself in my face. To think that I was cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after trying a number of physicians and undergoing an operation is a puzzle to me, and I am sure that I shall know about this grand medicine before I would have given $200 or $300 to have been guaranteed a cure by anyone."

"I am willing," said Mr. Frank, in conclusion, "to see anyone who wishes to verify this interview, as I consider it my duty to my fellow men and a matter of gratitude to the universe, to give my experience to the world. I have come to the conclusion that Pink Pills are the best blood builders in existence, and I think everyone should try them."

Suit For Damages.

John O. Savage, a citizen of Chicago, has instructed his attorneys to begin a suit against the authorities of Toronto, Ont., for $10,000 damages for false arrest. Mr. Savage says he was standing in the Union Square when a police officer in uniform came up and placed him under arrest. He protested against the outrage and exhibited letters from prominent men, but the police refused to pay any attention to these, or allow Mr. Savage to communicate with his friends at the hotel. The next morning they evidently came to the conclusion that they had made a mistake and allowed Mr. Savage to go. Mr. Savage's Toronto attorneys write him that such practices are too frequent there.

Nibbles—What a perfect poem the count's rich wife! "Pshaw! You count is the only man I know who can make poetry pay him thirty thousand a year."

SPORTS AFIELD.

A Brief Resume of What is Going on in Athletic Circles.

The Capitals recently defeated the Montreal lacrosse club by 6 goals to 0. From the start they had things their own way, and it was a most uninteresting game to look at.

Word has been received from the Vancouver Lacrosse club committee which has charge of the coming tour of the champions to the east. They ask for a guarantee of $200 for a game in Winnipeg. The local clubs will probably guarantee them $100, and are confident of picking a team that will make the visitors work to win. The Vancouver team will probably remain over a day and rest while on their way east, even if a match is not arranged.

The race between Gandar and Duran was the rankest kind of an exhibit, the race being run in such shallow water that the boats almost scraped along the bottom, and it was run three times past the grand stand of the ferry company, Toronto, so as to let the spectators see it. It was no race. Gandar could do anything he pleased with Duran, and won by one length simply because he did not want to win by fifty.

The Manitoba cricket tournament opened at Portage la Prairie the other day in beautiful weather, the breeze being in perfect condition. Owing to West Selkirk defaulting, the West End club were disappointed of their match, the absence of the former being greatly regretted. On ground No. 2 the Winnipeggers met the Gladstone club and beat them on the first innings by 28 runs. Winnipeg won the toss and went to the wickets first. Jacques and Rannavne opened the proceedings to the bowling of Pearson and Coy. The first wicket did not fall until 42 runs had been scored, while 47 more were added before another loss occurred. Winnipeg failed to keep up the admirable start, however, and the whole side were dismissed for 136. The chief individual scores were Jacques 65, Rannavne 22, and C. P. Wilson 21. Pearson did a remarkable looking feat for Gladstone, taking four wickets for 16 runs, and Bute five wickets for 20 runs. Portage made 163; Megeath 19, Heath 18, J. Shenton 26, Phillips 20 being the best scores. 1. Lloyd scored 2 wickets for 21 runs. On the second innings Gladstone took 62 runs in a total of 129. The other scores were: Jacques 47, Bute 27, Smith 38, Rannavne 19, the total for seven wickets being 229.

On ground No. 3 Portage played Mar- den, the former winning by an innings and 34 runs. In the Mar den first innings, Chambers 8, Laurie 6, were the best scores in a total of 129. The other scores were: Jacques 47, Bute 27, Smith 38, Rannavne 19, the total for seven wickets being 229.

The junior cricket of the Vesper club, of Philadelphia, won the amateur championship of America from the varsity crew of the University of Pennsylvania, which holds the championship among amateur college crews. James Henderson of the Vesper club, of Chicago, competed with W. S. Dowell, of the Delaware club, of Chicago, for the amateur championship of singles, record Maxwell holds. Maxwell won by three feet in a 55 ft. race.

DAN MANN'S MINE.

Wonderful Deposit of Steel Galena Near Fort Steele, B. C.

The Victoria column of a recent date says: "D. Mann, of Mann and Holt, the well-known firm of railway contractors, arrived in this city recently, and is at the present time, because of the result of the shooting of two carloads of galena, one at the Everett smelter. A couple of years ago, with other Montreal capitalists, he purchased the 'North Star,' a silver mine situated on the Carlin-East side of the Kootenai, about forty-five miles west of Fort Steele. This year the company have been developing the mine, and have also built a road to Jennings on the Great Northern R. R. for the purpose of providing a means of getting the ore to market. This road cost about $100,000. The first two carloads were shipped to the smelter at Everett, and gross return per ton of ore is $65.70. Hence Mr. Mann's cheerfulness.

The Indians are most remarkable ones. Time is 25 feet with shipping steel galena ore, and the whole deposit averages from 10 to 20 feet in width, that portion outside of the steel galena being concentrated ore. The returns from the two carloads are quite up to expectations and the working of the mine will probably pay 10 per cent. per annum on the money invested.

A sufficient number of men are employed to ensure an outcome of two carloads a day. The company are now arranging to put in a water supply of prospectors and sufficient men to deliver on the Kootenai river, 3,000 tons of ore. The company will also be shortly delivering this ore at the smelter at the Great Northern or Golden on the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. Mann believes the 'North Star' will become one of the greatest ore producers on the continent. The work so far has been marvellous over one hundred thousand tons of ore.

It was Mr. Mann who was instrumental in organizing the Victoria Hydraulic Co. of Quebec City. This company is now engaged in washing with every other day conveyed the intelligence that one pan of dirt washed gave $6.

The Frozen Milk Industry.

Canada's representative in Denmark reports that during the past year a new industry has been established there which promises to prove both profitable and serviceable, and which might be followed with equal success on this side of the water, viz. the shipment of frozen milk to large cities. A year ago a Danish merchant experimented in this direction by taking Danish milk, which is peculiarly delicate and rich in flavor, freezing it by the use of ice and salt, and sending it in barrels by rail and steamer to London. On its arrival the milk proved to be as sweet and well tasting as if it had just been drawn from a cow in the middle of Sweden. The milk was so much in demand that it was profitable to immediately take out a patent on the shipment of frozen milk from Sweden and Denmark to London. He then sold the patent to a stock company with large capital, which, on February 1 last, bought one of the largest Swedish creameries, converted it into a factory, and having put in a special freezing apparatus, began on May 1, the export of frozen milk in large quantities.

When the milk is received from the farmers it is pasteurized, that is, heated to 75° C., and then immediately cooled off to about 10° C., and now the freezing is commenced. Half the milk is filled into cans and placed in a freezing apparatus, where it will be thoroughly frozen in about three hours. The frozen milk is then filled into barrels of pine, the only kind of wood that can be used. The barrels, however, are only half filled with this frozen milk, the balance being filled with the unfrozen milk. This way of packing has the advantage of keeping the milk in order to keep the whole cool, and part has to be in a flowing state in order to get the barrels exactly full, which is necessary in order to avoid too much shaking up on the road, by which the cream would be turned out of the milk. The barrels are packed of the same time prevent the frozen milk settling in the cream. Milk which is treated in this way has proved to keep quite fresh for twenty-six days. Every barrel holds 100 pounds of milk, and twice a week there will be shipped fifty barrels, making in all about 100,000 pounds of milk a week.

The milk is shipped to Newcastle, and from there by rail to large manufacturing cities, where it is sold in the street or in retail stores. It is reported that the patent has been bought for Ireland also at a cost of $300,000, which proves how much the stock company expects from this new enterprise.

The time may not be far away when the dairy farms of the New England and Western States may be sending not butter and milk, but frozen milk and cream, to the large cities of both continents.—Phil. Record.

THE LATE JOHN HODGE.

Was He a Canadian? A Valuable Estate.

During the life of the late John Hodge, the ex-Grand Master Mason and millionaire, it was commonly believed that he was born in Canada. His claim to this honor was born in Jefferson county, New York. On the settlement of this question hinges the final disposition of at least a quarter of a million dollars of real estate, and relatives in Canada are taking steps to contest the property with the widow, Ella Hodge. It is believed that the late John Hodge had a son, John Hodge, who was born in Kingston, Ont., stating that John Hodge was born near there in Canada giving the names of his parents and stating that a near relative of the deceased lived in Kingston. The Canadian attorney asked as to the amount of the estate and whether deceased had left a will, John Hodge did leave a will, dated 1870, with a codicil of the date of 1879, making his wife, Ella Hodge, sole executrix and, it is stated, sole heir. It will be offered for probate on October 5. The will cuts off the Canadian relatives claim, but if Hodge's will is admitted as valid, he is having taken out naturalization papers, according to law, his real estate, worth $300,000, would escheat to the state. On the witness stand, John Hodge repeatedly swore that he was born in Jefferson county, N. Y., and that he found out that he was not a Canadian when he was elected to run for public office. He was urged to be the Republican candidate for state treasurer, but declined. A half-brother from Canada called upon him at Lockport two years ago, but was not received at his home. A John Hodge, of Niagara street, Lockport, N. Y., claims to be a cousin, but the millionaire disavowed the relationship.

Saskatchewan Gold.

Mr. A. W. McCharles, "Biogene," writing to the Saturday Journal, contributes the following from Edmonton on Saskatchewan mining. "For the past thirty years the sand bars on the Saskatchewan river for some distance above and below Edmonton have been worked for placer gold. At first as high as $5 a day could be made it, but now much less can be made. The river is now so low that the gold is being washed down the river, and the average is not over $2 a day, and the average is not over the ordinary wages of common labor. The bars can only be worked about four months in the year, two in the spring and two in the fall. The gold is found in a thin bed of gravel near the surface, and is not in the black sand (which is largely magnetic iron), and as the banks of the river in many places are continually wearing away, the auriferous gravel keeps falling down, and especially after having been washed by the winter frost, and the gold, which is very heavy, and is carried down stream, mainly during the flood time, and caught on the bars, but not all of it, and perhaps only a small portion of it; for the river is wide and the bars as a rule, lie parallel to the river, being made by the swirl of the water around sharp points, and the dredge is working the river bed and not the bars with good results, and a larger one is being built in Edmonton for the same purpose. In short they are what may be called 'poor man's diggings,' at best, but a number of settlers and others make their money in this way during spare time. About $15,000 were taken out last year."

Privilege to be Withdrawn.

The London board of agriculture threatens to withdraw the privilege given to American inspectors to verify at the ports of landing alleged cases of pleuro pneumonia in cattle. Two Canadian cattle suffering from pleuro pneumonia were recently landed at Liverpool, and the Canadian authorities were not allowed to examine them. A claimer to obtain for Canadians the same privileges as the American inspectors enjoy is now being raised. W. H. Long, president of the board of agriculture, contends that there is no provision in any act of parliament permitting foreign inspectors to examine the cattle. The Washington government may therefore be prepared to learn that the privilege accorded to the American inspectors has been rescinded.

Huxley's Death.

Prof. Huxley's death occurred at the very moment of the electoral excitement when people could think of nothing but politics, with the result that the event attracted very little attention and Huxley and the Christian world at large will read with interest these lines which have been engraved upon his tomb, in compliance with his request:

"And if there be no meeting past the grave."

If all is darkness, silence, yet 'tis rest. Be not afraid, ye waiting hearts that sleep.

For God still giveth His beloved sleep. And if an endless sleep, He wills so best."

A Double Killing.

Word was received at St. Paul a few days ago of a double killing, which occurred at Sweet Grass, Montana, on the international boundary. It appears that Wm. Long, cowboy for the "F" outfit, who is also said to be a whiskey smuggler, killed Canadian mounted policeman named Richardson. The two men met near Sweet Grass, had several drinks, got into a row and the killing resulted. After the shooting of Richardson, Long went to C. B. Todd's ranch, where he is alleged to have tried to kill Ira Brown, former of the sheep ranch. The latter in self-defense shot Long with a double-barrel shot gun, killing him almost instantly. Long's mother lives at Los Angeles, Cal.

To Exclude the Japs.

In a recent interview United States Senator White said that after Commissioner Fitzgerald, San Francisco, asked him to introduce in Congress a bill similar to the Chinese exclusion act, which shall exclude Japanese. Senator White has promised to do so if Fitzgerald will furnish data to prove that Japanese are seriously injuring American labor. He does not believe, however, it will be as easy as it was to get the Chinese bill through.

INFERNAL MACHINE.

Intended for Baron Alphonse de Rothschild, but His Clerk Got It.

It would appear that a serious attempt has been made upon the life of Baron Alphonse de Rothschild. A large and heavy envelope was received at the bank in Paris a few days ago, and addressed to the baron, and was opened by Mr. Jodkowski, the confidential clerk of the well-known bankers. Just as the clerk took open the envelope it exploded with great force, tearing his right arm, and blowing off some of his fingers. The police were hastily summoned, and an investigation was immediately commenced. The remains of the strange envelope were picked up and examined with the result that the police officers expressed the opinion that the envelope was one of the kind of an infernal machine. It consisted of pieces of cardboard tightly bound together, and was quite bulky. But there was nothing strange in its appearance as peculiarly constructed packages of similar appearance are frequently received by the bank from Mr. Jodkowski, when the latter's business in Winnipeg is completed. Mr. Marshall said that the card enclosed in this package is presumed contained fulminate of mercury so arranged that when the outer covering was torn off and explosion occurred, the police officers expressed the opinion that the fact that the envelope exploded when it was stamped in the post office, and they are therefore inclined to believe that it is possible that it did not pass through the post office at all, but was slipped into the bank by the person or persons connected with the plot, and that the envelope was one of the kind of an infernal machine, which was properly mailed. The detectives are working upon this theory, although several other clues are being followed. Upon one point the police seem to be unanimous, and that is, that the outrage was the work of anarchists. The bank was not damaged, and very little damage was done to the private office in which the clerk opened the strange package.

The attention of M. Zulkewitz, the confidential clerk of Baron A. de Rothschild, was directed especially to this letter because of the envelope, and the number of seals used. He first laid it to one side, thinking it to be a legal document of considerable importance, and planning to open it when he had completed the reading of the daily mail. When he inserted the pen knife to cut the edge of the paper, he found that the edge of the knife caught upon something, since ascertained to be a string concealed in the envelope. The act of cutting the string exploded a cap, which ignited the fulminate of mercury. The police are of the opinion that the envelope was one of the kind of an infernal machine, and the material contained in the envelope respects those sent to the French deputies in 1891, in boxes made to appear like packages of books. The police are making efforts to discover where the letter received at the bank was posted.

The attempts to save the injured clerk were unsuccessful, and he is now in a hospital. His clothing was soiled and his body bruised in several places. M. Girard, director of the municipal laboratory has made a fac simile of the envelope, which will be sent to all post and stamp offices in the endeavor to trace the sender.

Low Wages in Japan.

Consul General N. W. Melvor, writing from Kanagawa, Japan, April 15, gives the following as the rate of wages prevalent at Yokohama in January of this year, the working day being ten hours. When it is remembered that Japan has a population nearly as large as that of France, and that within twenty-five years it has advanced from comparative obscurity as a semi-civilized nation to one which has been reckoned with as an important factor in the world's commerce and manufactures, competing actively and with constantly increasing energy with the western nations in all that pertains to supplying the eastern markets, the significance of these figures cannot be ignored.

The Missionary's Companion.

Mr. Geo. It has been my companion for several years during the labor and exposure of my missionary work in Algoma. THE IMPORTANCE OF THE LIVER.

Thousands Suffer Because the Liver is De-ranged—South American Nerveine is the Great Panacea of the Day for a Diseased Liver and All Stomach Troubles—Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervousness and General Debility.

When a well-known author wrote his book entitled, "Is Life Worth Living?" Mr. Punch, with shrewd, practical common sense, replied to

THE WORLD OWES A LARGE DEBT TO THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN.

Chicago owes a large debt to the hen, considering the fact that the city consumes from $8 to $15 worth of eggs every minute. Last year Chicago used the enormous amount of 313,542,000 eggs.

Eggs are used in many ways that the general public seldom think of. If the hen should stop laying not only would the gourmand suffer, but the arts would come to a large share of hardship. The number of eggs used by photographers, art-

In the early days of the commercial history of eggs farmers employed primitive methods for the preservation of eggs in store for the winter months, when the supply is almost out and the market price unusually high. In January the price often used to run as high as 50 and 60 cents a dozen, while in the spring and early summer the supply was a drug and sold at from 4 to 5 cents. The eggs were packed in coats or sawdust and also in preserving fluids. This process was far from satisfactory. The preserving fluids had a tendency to weaken the shells. A process came into use by which the eggs were placed in artificial heat and ground up into the shell.

Now the most common method is to use a hot-water bath filled with talcum and was practicable for use on season eggs.

Truth About Canada.
There is not a community in the world of less credit and less respect from objectivists elements than that of the United States. Canadians are well versed in the art of self-government. They clearly understand that true liberty is not license, therefore they have profound respect for law and constitutional means and methods. They demand honest money. They have adopted gold as a single standard of value. They are not averse to silver and any demand in Canada for "a new money, or a defaced silver currency. Although an ultra liberal people they believe in protection to Canadian industries in preference to those of Mother England. The lake of Kizomo.

Every polar expedition and whaling vessel which visits the Shetlin has region ports at Yareoke Bank, so as to allow problems and seamen to visit the celebrated lake of Kizomo. Of the author of "My Summer in the Arctic" says: "It is a lake of considerable extent, but only a few feet above the level of the sea, and consists of a deep, dark, blood red, almost a crimson, colored water. It is thought a continuation proved, however, that the water was pure and clear as the blood red color being due to the fact that the water of the lake, as well as the few stones which are scattered in it, were coated most perfectly with the red snow plant. In some places, the water had evaporated, the withered plants on the soil and rocks looking like dried snails of blood."¹

The night at the close of the services around a young man named Nathan was one saying, "Maggie Klein's husband and her mother wants us to be with him tonight. We were used to strange, unceremonious, and the calls, and in a few moments passing to the house of death.

Maggie Klein, who often attended our singings, was a ragged, unkempt, ill-nourished street girl who lived in a short, low, walled alley between the two main streets known as Buckeye alley, which, at the close of the night, was literally alive with the wailing of fallen humanity, the cries of intense grief, the sobs of the women who had reached the last stage of their sad wandering and body decay.

"The woman agrees. She was tall and graceful and had once been handsome, but now every line of the face was marked with disipation. The dreamy eyes, the deadly palor, the shrill, cracked tone of the voice, all betokened the hapless victim of a long, slow death."

"It will be best for you to spend the night at a neighbor's," I said, "and we will make all necessary arrangements."

"Maggie saw Mr. Childs, the city undertaker," replied Mrs. Klein, "and he said the funeral would be at 2 o'clock."

"Will you go with me to the grave?" the Street Broker asked, and Maggie said, "That was Jim's favorite. He used to sit by the window all day rooking and singing."

There's a land that is fairer than day,
And by faith we can see it afar,
And the Father waits over the way
To prepare us a dwelling place there."

"As the lonely hours dragged on, was Jim in sweet communion with the Father, and did he live by the eyes of faith to see the fair land of the Father? I think so. For the Father's compassion began smiling at these weary years for him. Was it the loving tenderness of an all-wise and Heavenly Father that placed Jim, the innocent, amid the heart sickening scenes of Buckeye alley? Was it an omnipotent Father's love that permitted him all these years to be surrounded by the degrading influence of shame and vice, and to know nothing but the bitterest humiliations of poverty and pain? And as a reward for all the hours of cruel suffering and bitter anguish, was it true

"You silently walked beside it to the city of the dead. The thick cloud clouds were dark, the way they are, the sky hung heavy with moiled rain, and the wind sighed and moaned among the branches of the trees in pining sorrow for the scene."

"The men did not follow as quite to the grave, but stood a little distance away, reverently waiting. In touching contrast to the scene, sympathetically gathered about the tomb were many women."

"'Don't cry, my dear, he's better off,' said one as she tenderly drew Mrs Klein's head down upon her shoulder and with the corner of her ragged, faded shawl wiped the tears from the wan, haggard face. It was a kindly act, betraying the sympathy of a womanly heart beneath which lay a stout spirit in a life of blameless work."

"But her own sun-scarred face grew soft and tender as she sought to comfort the mourning mother.

MAUD HOBSON HAS HAD LIVELY

When Maud Hobson, the Gaiety Girl, began her suit for divorce in San Francisco against Capt. Andrew Burrell Haley of the British Tenth Hussars, no one dreamed of the romance buried in the dry

David's heroic, blonde, with a gentle drop which the heavy sabours of his beard and in their nostrils, a man of the world and admittedly reckless was struck the hardest. He was the owner of a fine estate, came of an honored family and had all sorts of expectations.

Suddenly came Maud Hobson and a change to Haley. He absolutely became melancholy and haunted the Gaiety like a nightmare. He was a married man, the wife of his choice, despite the protests of his family, and proceeded to throw his money to the winds in all sorts of extravagances. He didn't last long at that, and when he came a cropper for £11,000 in the Derby of 1881 he had to face the fact.

He represented to his family his crying need for a large sum of money, and at first, but finally agreed that they would supply him with £1,000 a year if he would clear out with his Gaiety girl and give them a chance to straighten up his affairs.

It was hard to leave London, but money means life, and he routed the family and the friends of his wife and took his young bride embarked for America.

It is a reminder of the days when Dr. Cushman was associated with Prof. Morse

In 1851 Dr. Cushman undertook the construction of a lightning arrester, his object being to take the lightning that struck the wire and run it into the ground, the instrument being so constructed that it

Dr. Cushman is the inventor of the first alarm system in Chicago. His patent, an alarm rope, he says, "would weigh a ton" and contain a great number of his electrical patents. To the priority of Dr. Cushman there is said to be no doubt, and the contest of the validity of the Bell patents begun in 1885 was at last taken to the United States District Court of Boston and ended in his favor.

Dr. Cushman is a descendant of the historical Cusumans who came to Virginia in 1640. He was a friend of Horace Greeley and most of his prominent contemporaries in what might be called the era of rapid mechanical development. In early life he was a "railroad reporter." Some twenty years of his life he spent in central Ohio and he says: "I never doubted that God made that country."

A New Explanation of the Strange Tragedy in Tipperary.

An Irish correspondent of the London Pictorial writes to inform the readers of that paper that the English papers seemed to have missed the real point of that horrible chapter in the history of superstition—the murder of Mrs. Clergy in the County Tipperary. She did not fall a victim to the belief in witchcraft or in demonology, session—neither has any real hold in Ireland. She perished owing to the belief in the fairies, a belief to this hour singularly prevalent through the whole of Munster, and, from Dublin, also in the North, and

In Munster, when a child appears delicate, or a young woman consumptive or sterile, the conclusion often is that the father or the woman has been carried off by the fairies to be made a playmate or nurse to the young fairies, and that a fairy substitute resembling the person taken away deposited in its place which gradually declines and ultimately dies. The belief is that if the changeling be tortured by fire the fairy parents will hear its cries, rush to aid, carry it back to fairyland, and at the same time restore the real person, who will be found sleeping calmly in bed.

That's a good story to tell me," said Mr. Davin, "I fear it is beu truvato," whereupon Mr. Murray called his friend Mr. Stanley, who had been present, and who confirmed what he had told.

Testing Cows.
No man who has not made individual tests of his cows can have any really trustworthy knowledge of the merits of his herd. When over a breeder makes this cow test he is sure to meet surprise and disappointments unless he possesses far more than ordinary skill in judging cows. Some years ago, Director Roberts, of Cornell University Experiment Station, stated, before a dairy conference, that there were in the whole herd one cow that made 150 lbs of butter in a year and another that made 450 lbs; that there was practically no difference in the cost of keeping them, and that they gave so nearly the same amount of milk that the milkster could not tell which was the better cow of the two. But the individual test discloses that fact that one cow lost money while the other made a large profit. This is an extreme case, but similar differences can be disclosed in every herd. There are thousands of cows that are not paying their keep; cows that it would pay their owners to kill them for their hides and tallow. They are parasites on the good cows. —Jersey Bulletin.

Santaluta Siftings.
Mr. Jas. Ewart has been appointed manager of the farmers' elevator for the ensuing year. This appointment meets with general satisfaction.

The steamship Warrimoo sailed for Australia and New Zealand early Friday morning. Her cargo was the largest taken since the line was established. Every inch of her hold was utilized, while cargo was also put in several state rooms.

Amongst her passengers, of whom there were 40 saloon and 30 steerage, was Lawyer Davis, of Vancouver, B.C., who goes to Honolulu to be present at the commission for taking in the cases of Johnston, Mueller and Cranston, who were deported from Hawaii on this steamer last spring.

No Bold Eye Should See Her.
They had a new girl. She was not the imported article, but was native enough to satisfy a member of the A.P.A. She came from some where in Indiana and had never seen a telephone. She was given a hasty lesson in its use and told to answer it when members of the family were absent. The second afternoon everybody was out but the Indiana product. She was in her room.

An hour before dinner the female head of the family returned. "That thing in the closet was ringing for ten minutes this afternoon, ma'am," said the new girl.

"Why did you not answer it as I told you to do, Mary?" said the mistress.

"I would have, ma'am," said Mary, "only I was half undressed and I was afraid it might be a man."

Smiles.
Foxy—"Did you hear about the accident to Featherbrain?"
Roxy—"Why, no. What was it?"
Foxy—"A shaft of wit punctured the pneumatic tire of one of the wheels in his head, and the explosion killed him."

Haskell—"Have you ever given much thought to the financial problems of the times?"

Miskel—"Oh, yes, I have been trying to make a two weeks' salary cover a four weeks' vacation."

Boggs—"Who is that chap filling himself up on terrapin and champagne?"

Foggs—"That is the author of 'How to Live on $6 a Month'—that is, if you are fool enough to try it."

Law Regarding Newspapers.
1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the post office, whether in his name or another's, or who has his name on it or not, is responsible for payment.
2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay up all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and then collect the waste amount should the paper be taken from the office or not.
3. In suits for subscription, the suit may be instituted in the place where the paper is published, although the subscriber may reside hundreds of miles away.
4. The courts have decided that refusing newspapers or periodicals from the post office or removing or leaving them uncalled for while unpaid, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

RELIEF IN SIX HOURS.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." Directions to Correspondents.
1. Be brief and to the point. Life is short, and please remember we wish to give other correspondents a show.
2. Write plainly and only on one side of paper. This will prevent you from unintentionally sending the compositor to the "clouds."
3. As time is hard only use a one-cent stamp; do not seal the envelope, but just turn it in the flap.
4. When you are out of paper and envelopes wait for more.
5. Write as often as you can—once a week, or twice; but so that we may receive copy not later than Monday night or Tuesday morning.
6. Send nothing but news. Illustrated gossip cannot be admitted to the columns of the paper. If anything happens in your vicinity, such as a birth, marriage, death, accident, school or church event, arrival of visitors at your home or your neighbor's, in fact anything of local interest, send it to The Progress. If you are not accustomed to write for the press we will revise it.
Connected with the office is a good job printing department and any orders you may be pleased to send in will receive prompt attention.
